New physio scheme frees up GP time

A PILOT scheme which sees physiotherapists based at a Haverhill doctors' surgery is freeing up GP appointments.

The scheme, based at Haverhill's Clements Surgery in Greenfields Way, sees patients who come in with problems such as back or knee pain offered the option of seeing a physiotherapist instead of a GP.

There is a physiotherapist at the practice three days a week and patients are offered an appointment within the week.

The service, provided by physiotherapy organisation Allied Health Professionals (AHP) Suffolk, means that patients can be sent away with advice, referred to a physiotherapist at Haverhill Health Centre, or if necessary referred to a surgeon.

The aim of the six-month trial, which started in July, is to free up GP appointments, reduce the number of referrals to hospital, and reduce the cost of prescribing pain relief.

Between July 11 and August 26, the physios saw 92 patients, freeing up that number of GP appointments. It's estimated that 20 to 30 per cent of GP appointments are for musculoskeletal problems, and the scheme aims to have all of these seen by a physio.

None of the patients seen by the physiotherapists needed to be referred to hospital. In the same period last year there were 48 referrals.

AHP Suffolk's lead physiotherapist for the Haverhill area Bradley Scanes said: "It's been going very well. It's saved GPs a lot of time."

He said that patient satisfaction surveys had revealed a "near perfect patient experience" and the score from family and friends was 100 per cent.

Whether the scheme has made a difference to the surgery's pharmaceutical costs will be determined by the West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG)

Firm up for 'accountancy Oscars'

A HAVERHILL accountancy firm has been nominated for two national awards.

1 Accounts online is a finalist for the Independent Firm of the Year - East England and the New Practice Award at this year's British Accountancy Awards.

Managing director Paul Donno said: "It is a huge honour to be short-listed for these national industry awards, they are like the Oscars of the accounting world."

The firm had to provide facts and figures about its growth with its entry.

The winners of each award will be announced on November 29.

HEALTH

Obesity figures prompt action

HAVERHILL leaders are taking action after figures revealed that the town has the highest level of adult obesity in West Suffolk.

The numbers were revealed at the end of July by West Suffolk Councils as they worked to increase residents' physical activity.

Haverhill North was the council ward across West Suffolk with the highest proportion of obese adults - 29.6 per cent. The three other Haverhill wards were the second, third and joint fourth most obese.

The figures have prompted action on ways to help get residents moving.

Community partnership

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

ONE Haverhill's health task group is working on a way to signpost residents towards health services.

Chair of the partnership John Mayhew said: "It is a wake up call. I think it's an exciting opportunity for us to get some feet on the ground and do something about it."

At a meeting of the partnership's board last Wednesday, Lois Wreathall, of the West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning group, who heads up the health task group, said: "We thought this would be a really good opportunity to map what's going on in Haverhill. There are 140 clubs, churches do things, everywhere you go there are people running things."

She said the group were looking at whether they could deliver that "map" via Suffolk County Council's infolink, or whether to create a separate online directory.

Town councillor Betty McLatchy, who is a member of the task group, also has plans to set up "Ziggy Zumba" exercise classes for children around the town. She said she hoped it would be a way of getting mothers as well as children active.

Call her on (01440) 714 338 to get involved.

Physio scheme 'is the way forward'

when the pilot ends in February.

A spokesperson for the CCG said: "The aim is to make it easier for people to get specialist advice to help them and works along with other initiatives which support people to get the most appropriate help and advice for their condition."

Town councillor Betty McLatchy fundraises to improve healthcare in the town with the Haverwell Community Wellbeing Fund. She said about the physiotherapy scheme: "It's the way forward. The National Health Service won't survive unless we help it."

If the CCG judges that the pilot, which is also running at the Guildhall Surgery in Bury St Edmunds, was successful, it will be rolled out at GP practices across the region.

EMERGENCY

Elderly man taken to hospital after accident with taxi

A MAN in his 80s was taken to hospital with head injuries after being in a collision with a taxi on Tuesday evening.

Police and the ambulance service were called to Peas Hill, just off Haverhill's market square, at around 5.45pm.

The ambulance service sent an ambulance, a rapid response vehicle and an East Anglian Air Ambulance medical car to the scene.

Paramedics treated the man, who was a pedestrian, before taking him to Addenbrooke's in Cambridge.

Police said the man's injuries did not appear to be life-changing or life threatening.

They are still investigating how the accident happened.

Cyclists set out for a challenge

AROUND 75 cyclists turned out for a sportive in Haverhill on Sunday.

Setting off from Aerocycles in Falconer Road, the cyclists could choose to take on one of four different routes. These ranged from a 15-mile pedal suitable for families to a 100-mile trip aimed at elite cyclists.

Oliver Bearton, one of the sportive's two organisers, said: "It went really well, we had really good feedback."

The event was raising money for the Haverhill Cycling Club and the club's new youth branch, which helps schoolage children get confident on their bikes.

Mr Bearton said the cycling club did not yet have the exact figure raised.

PRISON

Jail criticised in death report

A REPORT has criticised a prison's procedures after an inmate hanged himself.

The man, identified by the Prison Service as David Smith, died on May 24, 2014, after harming himself at HMP Highpoint in Stradishall the previous night.

The Prison and Probation Ombudsman (PPO) report reveals that prison officers did not initiate suicide and self-harm procedures until late in the evening, despite the fact Mr Smith and his cellmate had asked what would happen if he swallowed a razor blade.

The report, which was published online on Monday, also reveals that Mr Smith's family were not informed of what had happened for hours. He hanged himself around 11.55pm and his mother was visited by police about it at 6.30am.

Mr Smith had been transferred to Highpoint from HMP Chelmsford on May 23, and had a history of self-harm.

When he arrived at Highpoint, a reception nurse judged that he was not at risk of suicide. But the rest of his first night procedures were undertaken by a fellow prisoner, and no prison officer assessed his risk of suicide.

HANNAH MIRSKY

At around 8pm in the evening Mr Smith asked to speak to a peer support worker, but none was available. There was a two-hour delay before he was given a phone to call the Samaritans, and he was not able to use this in private.

Several times in the evening, he asked to be moved to a single cell, indicated that he might harm himself and he and his cellmate asked what would happen if he swallowed a razor blade.

Prison officers told the inspector that they believed these incidents were ploys to get a single cell, or a test of the boundaries at a new prison.

It was only at 11.30pm, when Mr Smith said he had swallowed a razor blade, that suicide prevention procedure was started. He was found hanged less than half an hour later.

Prison and Probation Ombudsman Nigel Newcomen wrote: "I am concerned that first night procedures at Highpoint were inadequate and staff should have reacted more effectively."

A spokesperson for the prison service said: "This is a tragic case and our thoughts are with the family and friends of David Smith."

"As a result of the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman's investigations, we have accepted all of the recommendations put forward."

"Safety in prisons is fundamental to the proper functioning of our justice system and a vital part of our reform plans."

The report was published after an inquest found "lack of compassion" contributed to Mr Smith's death.

ENTERTAINMENT

'Allo 'Allo actress stars in panto

A STAR of classic comedy 'Allo 'Allo is set to appear in Haverhill's Christmas pantomime.

Sue Hodge, best known for her role as waitress Mimi LaBonq in the sitcom, will be taking to the stage in this year's production of Robin Hood.

The actress has starred in over 30 pantos during her career, but only recently took on the role of the Nurse.

She said: "When it was suggested, I jumped at the chance, as it will be a new challenge and great fun."

"Robin Hood is a wonderfully traditional pantomime with a fabulous story line."

"I'm told the original story is nearly 500 years old, so a bit like my jokes!"

"Mimi will have a wonderful time flirting with both Robin Hood and The Sheriff of Nottingham. I wonder which one she will end up with!?"

Sue will be joined by Rikki Chamberlain, who plays ITV children's character Captain Jack, and Lloyd Notice, who starred in The Lion King in London's West End.

Tickets are already selling for the Christmas panto, which runs from December 20 to 30. To book call (01440) 714 140.

Schoolboy set for gym finals

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

A YOUNG gymnast from Haverhill has qualified to compete in a national competition.

Harry White, a 10-year-old Year Five student at New Cangle Primary, was ranked second in East Anglia in his age group at Ipswich heats on Sunday – qualifying him to compete in national finals in Birmingham this November.

"He was really pleased," said his mum Gemma White. "Because he's been putting in extra hours he's been improving and progressing really quickly."

The dedicated youngster has already notched up around 20 medals, and spends 24 hours a week training – plus a further 10 hours travelling to his club in Colchester.

His dad Michael White said: "He's nearly doing a full-time job."

Harry trains five days a week, only taking a day off on a Thursday and Sunday. On Tuesdays, he leaves school at 10.30am to head to Colchester for training that lasts until 6pm.

But Michael says his son isn't tired even on a Tuesday evening.

"We've got pommels and parallel bars in our front room. He comes home from a six -hour training session and he does more."

And the gymnast – who celebrated his 10th birthday yesterday – isn't stopping at nationals.

"He's aiming for the Olympics – that really is his ultimate goal," said Gemma. "He's very ambitious, he's very determined, he's very focused. He's got the right frame of mind."

Harry started his gymnastics training aged just three-and-a-half.

Gemma said: "He was very strong – even at three he was climbing up the door frames."

"I took him to the parent and toddler group and he was flipping off things and had no fear. It just went from there."

He trained at the Haverhill Gymnastics Club for years, but two years ago switched to his current club in Colchester as he would have a peer group and more facilities there.

Gemma said he showed no sign of slowing down.

"He said he can't imagine not ever doing it," she said. "It's always been part of his life."

What do you think? Have your say on our website at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

CONSULTATION

Commuter opinion is sought

THE opinions of people who travel from Haverhill to Cambridge for work are needed for a consultation on congestion.

The Greater Cambridge City Deal, a partnership which aims to improve growth, has put forward plans to reduce peak-time gridlock. These include more bus services, traffic management and further investment in Park and Ride services.

City Deal chair Lewis Herbert said: "Thousands of people travel into Cambridge to work, study or enjoy the city. They contribute to the economy and help make it the unique city that it is."

"Many either choose or have no option but to live outside Cambridge and to travel by car and we want to give people more choice in how they commute by making it nicer, quicker and even cheaper to travel using other means of transport. Congestion is a major barrier to this, which is why plans to reduce it are bold ones."

'JUSTICE MISSED': Lauri Love could face three separate trials in the US over hacking allegations

Judge rules man can face US trial

A STRADISHALL man accused of hacking into US government computers is set to be extradited to America.

Lauri Love, 31, who has Asperger's syndrome, is accused of a series of cyber-attacks on US government agencies in 2012 and 2013.

He is alleged to have stolen large amounts of data from bodies including the Federal Reserve, the Department of Defence, Nasa and the FBI.

The American government has been fighting to have him extradited to the US to face charges.

Love suffers from depression, anxiety, psychosis and suicidal thoughts, as well as asthma and severe eczema. His family have said that being extradited could lead to a mental breakdown.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

On Friday at Westminster Crown Court in London, judge Nina Tempia ruled that Love, who lives in Stradishall with his parents, can be extradited.

She said: "I'm going to extradite Mr Love but what I mean by that is I'm going to send his case to the Secretary of State."

She added that the alleged hacker's rights to a private and family life under the European Convention on Human Rights were "clearly engaged", but she was "satisfied" the American authorities could meet his needs.

She said: "In balancing the factors for and against extradition I am satisfied that the very strong counter-balancing factors required to find extradition would be disproportionate are not found in this case."

Gasps were heard in court when Judge Tempia gave her verdict.

Wearing a purple sash as a belt, Love embraced friends and family after the result was announced.

"If you have come for justice then you have missed it," he told journalists in the courtroom afterwards.

His solicitor Karen Todner said outside the court that they would be lodging an appeal with the High Court. There is a 14-day window in which to do so.

Hinkley move is a mistake

WELL yet another programme (Daily Politics on BBC2) gave a Labour MP a chance to have a go at Jeremy Corbyn rather than voice her opinions on the decision about Hinkley.

She accused Jeremy of not wanting to be the party in power, but merely wanting to have a go at capitalism. What a load of rubbish.

She said that if Jeremy is voted in by the people then many of the MPs opposing him should walk away, well I say "good riddance". He was voted in by the people and will hopefully be voted in yet again by the people. Those in the Labour party who cannot get behind him and give him their full support, which they should have been doing to date, should indeed resign and allow proper Labour voters to take their place and then do what they are supposed to be doing now, and keep the Tories on their toes.

I wonder if these non-supporters of Corbyn who have been 'doing him down' have any idea at all what damage they have caused the true Labour party. They should walk away if necessary and find a party that they feel they CAN support.

I lived in Tony Blair's constituency when he was prime minister and he was certainly no MP; he appeared to care nothing about his constituents at all, a flaw that many MPs are guilty of. Perhaps they all need reminding who pays them and exactly what they are being paid for.

As for Hinkley, well we will see, hopefully not to our cost. I do not like the idea at all and I am not in the minority. I do not think it will offer as many British jobs as it promises, I think it will be far more costly than we are being told, I think it is wrong to allow another country to be in charge of our nuclear power programme, and I think it is dangerous.

Getting off to a healthy start

STARTING a new school year can be daunting for any child, and for children with Type 1 diabetes it can be even more worrying. Having to make sure they are supported when counting the carbohydrates in their food, as well as taking insulin to manage glucose levels would make anyone anxious on top of school work and exams.

Some children are still struggling to get care and support they need to help them manage their diabetes or other health condition and fully participate in school life, despite it being a legal requirement in England since September 2014. This could be putting the child's safety at risk as well as comprising their academic potential.

This is why Diabetes UK has produced a raft of free support and education resources for parents and schools. This includes offering the Care in School Helpline to help concerned parents and hosting the Good Diabetes Care in School Award which exemplifies exactly what good care in schools looks like.

School staff and parents in the East of England can visit our website to get free materials or contact our dedicated helpline with any school-related queries. Supported by our National Charity Partnership with Tesco, the Care in School Helpline is staffed by trained volunteers who can provide information about children's rights as well as emotional support for what is usually a stressful time for parents.

To find out what support we offer or to contact the Care in School Helpline, call 0345 123 2399 or visit diabetes.org.uk/care-in-school a concert in St Mary's Church, Bury St Edmunds. Founded in 1988, the choir has toured extensively both in the United Kingdom and Europe, performing a wide range of music from 1940's swing, Welsh hymns, performance in competition with 12 other top bands from around the country. The concert at St Mary's Church, Bury St Edmunds, starts at 7.30pm with tickets available on the door.

FUNDRAISER

Dogs to become 'caped crusaders' for charity

CHARITY WALK: Organiser Simon Edwards with his guide dog Parsley

A NEW fundraising event in Haverhill will allow the town's canine residents to put their best feet forward.

Dogs Unite is a charity walk in East Town Park raising money for national charity Guide Dogs.

Residents are invited to collect cash in sponsorship for their dogs rather than themselves. Pooches who participate will be celebrated as "heroes" and given a cape.

The event, on October 9, is taking place during Guide Dogs Week and marks the launch of a new Haverhill branch of Guide Dogs.

There will be three different routes for walkers and dogs, from a half-mile stroll on hard standing suitable for young children and those who need disabled access, to a four-mile walk to Sturmer.

There's also set to be refreshments, some guide dog puppies for residents to meet, and a stall selling Guide Dogs merchandise.

Organiser Simon Edwards, who is registered blind and has a guide dog himself, said he was hoping to attract between 50 and 100 people to the first event.

He has invited Haverhill's MP

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

Matthew Hancock and the town's mayor David Roach, as well as a number of other councillors.

The theme of this year's Guide Dogs week is "move it", in recognition of the way the dogs help people get out and moving.

Simon, who got his guide dog Parsley last year, said: "You don't understand what it's like to lose your vision, and people's generosity [to Guide Dogs] has given people with visual impairment a new start in life."

Dogs Unite is open to people who do not own a dog – simply raise sponsorship for yourself rather than your pet – but if you're more of an indoors person, Simon is already organising a charity night around Christmas or in the New Year.

Couple trek 192 miles for dementia

MADE IT: Jan and Steve Harris at the end of the walk

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A COUPLE have raised £1,200 for a dementia charity by walking from one side of the country to the other.

Haverhill residents Jan and Steve Harris completed the 192-mile coast-to-coast walk on Friday.

They were raising money for Alzheimer's UK after Jan's parents' close friend Gordon Palmer – formerly the landlord of the Bull Pub in Haverhill – died after suffering from the disease for six years.

Jan and Steve met Gordon's widow Pat and Jan's father Trevor when they finished the 13-day trek at Robin Hood's Bay in North Yorkshire.

Jan said: "It was absolutely an amazing experience. Seeing dad and Pat at the end was really the icing on the cake."

She said the hardest day was spent ascending the 2,560 Kidsty Pike – and battling 50mph winds as they did so.

While Steve had done some long hikes, this was the first time Jan had been trekking for more than two days in a row.

"I did get two big blisters – going up the hills was quite painful at times," she said.

But she added that it was worth it for the unforgettable experience, as well as the £1,200 the couple have raised.

"We can't thank everyone enough for their support and messages on the way – that's what kept us going," she continued.

There's still time to donate and help the couple raise even more for the cause – just visit justgiving.com/fundraising/jansteveharriscoast2coast

PLANNING

Phone boxes set to be ripped out

PHONE boxes in the Haverhill area are set to be taken away – despite one of them being used every other day.

Eight local phone booths feature on a list of 41 that BT wants to remove across West Suffolk.

Six of the boxes – in Stradishall, Wickhambrook and Kedington, and in Haverhill's Piperell Way, Hollands Road and Western Avenue – haven't been used at all in the last year.

But also scheduled for removal are a phone box in the town's Burton End that has been used 33 times in the last year, and one in Stradbou Square that has been used 181 times – around once every two days.

One of the boxes up for removal in Acacia Avenue, Bury St Edmunds, was used 428 times in the last year.

A period of consultation on removing the phone boxes is under way and runs until October 4. If you'd like to comment on the removal of any of these boxes, contact St Edmundsbury Borough Council's planning department on (01638) 719000 or (01284) 763233 or visit west-suffolk.gov.uk

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

Communities have been "adopting" disused phone boxes up and down the country, coming up with innovative ideas such as converting them into a mini-library or an office.

But this option is not available for any of the phone boxes put up for removal in Haverhill, as they are not red "heritage" boxes.

Town councillor Betty McLatchy said: "The trouble is they all get vandalised and people can't use them."

"It's a difficult one because I know some people in emergencies would require one, but most people carry a mobile phone."

A spokesperson for BT said the company had written to St Edmundsbury Borough Council about the removal of the boxes as part of an ongoing review of phone box usage.

He continued: "BT is committed to providing a public payphone service, but with usage declining by over 90 per cent in the last decade, we've continued to review and remove payphones which are no longer needed."

"In all instances where there's no other payphone within 400 metres, we'll ask for consent from the local authority to remove the payphone."

"Where we receive objections from the local authority, we won't remove the payphone."

A decision will be made by November 28.

Unusual wall goes up in family garden

A CRAFTSMAN thinks he may have built the first "crinkle crinkle" wall in over a century in a garden near Haverhill.

Graham North constructed the unusual flint wall in the garden of the Gearing family in Bury Road, Stradishall.

The style of wall is wavy rather than straight and this one weaves in and out across a lawn. Suffolk has about 50 "crinkle crinkle" walls – believed to be twice as many as in the rest of the UK.

Bury St Edmunds-based Graham, who works across East Anglia, said: "I have never seen another new crinkle crinkle wall. I believe this could be the first in East Anglia for possibly 100 years or more."

CAMPAIGN

Kerry is face of new cancer drive

A HAVERHILL mum is fronting a breast cancer campaign after being diagnosed with the disease when she was 12 weeks pregnant.

Kerry Farrant, who lives in the town's Mill Hill, was 28 and expecting her second child when she was diagnosed in 2009.

During pregnancy, she had three rounds of chemotherapy and a mastectomy before giving birth at 34 weeks.

She said: "At that point I knew I just had to fight for myself and for later – I already had a two-year-old daughter. It was just: "What do we do now?"

Her recovery went on for two years after Kerry's younger daughter Esmay, now 6, was born.

Her skin needed to heal after the mastectomy and 15 rounds of radiotherapy, and she had an expander put in which was slowly pumped up to create the shape of a breast.

She's in the clear for now but there is a risk that the cancer could return.

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

"I still live with the fact of: 'Will it come back? Or when is it going to come back?'" she said. "One of the breast nurses said to me: 'You can't let this rule you, you've got to move on and be positive.'"

And a positive has come out of it: as a result of her experience being treated at Addenbrooke's in Cambridge, she decided to become a health-care assistant there. She loves the job, and is hoping to start training as a nurse next year.

After her personal experiences with breast cancer, Kerry says she "jumped at the chance" to be the face of this year's Addenbrooke's Charitable Trust Breast Cancer Campaign.

The campaign, which has been running since 2004, raises money each year for the Breast Unit at Addenbrooke's.

This year, they're hoping to raise £50,000 to buy a special X-ray specimen machine which will allow the unit to screen one more patient each day.

The trust is encouraging residents to hold a fundraising tea party in October – and Kerry is planning one for 100 people at the New Croft in Haverhill's Chalkstone Way. It will take place on Sunday, October 23.

The £15 ticket price for Kerry's event includes tea, cake, scones and sandwiches.

Jo Elliott, of Addenbrooke's Charitable Trust, said: "We're delighted that Kerry agreed to be the face of the Addenbrooke's Breast Cancer Appeal this year."

To book a ticket, search "Kerry Stewart Farrant" on Facebook and send her a message.

CHARITY

'We need your old spectacles'

A RECYCLING scheme will send secondhand spectacles to under-privileged people overseas.

Optician Wardale Williams in Haverhill's Camps Road is collecting used glasses to send abroad – and is offering customers a discount when they hand them in.

Practice manager Emma Mobbs said: "The spectacles will be helping under-privileged people overseas who simply do not have access to health and eye care which many of us have come to take for granted in this country."

"Most of the glasses returned are of a very high quality so they will really make a difference to the lives of so many people."

"All customers need to do to claim a discount is to return their old spectacles to us."

The specs will be handed to charity Lions International, which has been supporting eyecare projects since the 1970s. They will be sent to Africa, India and Eastern Europe.

INFRASTRUCTURE

New project to fund lorry park

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A CAMPAIGN has been started to provide a lorry park for Haverhill.

The Chamber of Commerce says that as the town grows and the business park expands, a lorry park will be crucial.

Chairman Paul Donno said: "I think it's a necessity for the town. Especially the way it's going, there's more and more investment in the town, and there's going to be more and more traffic."

The chamber has set up a meeting to discuss the project and how to tackle the problem of lorries parking at the side of the road.

Mr Donno said at present, lorries caused problems for residents by drivers leaving their engines running into the small hours and going to the toilet around their vehicles as there were no facilities.

Since the start of the year,

CRUCIAL PROJECT: Chamber chairman Paul Donno

the chamber has been in talks with stakeholders including logistics company Culina, Suffolk Chamber of Commerce and St Edmundsbury Borough Council to discuss the possibility of a lorry park.

The project, for which no site has yet been found, will be discussed at the chamber's meeting on October 7, when members are hoping to get MP Matthew Hancock on side.

Mr Donno said the biggest challenges were finding a source of funding for the project and to locate a site.

He added: "In an ideal world, I would prefer it to be slightly out of town to keep the main traffic out of town."

He explained that the problem was that lorry drivers had time slots within which they had to deliver goods, and if they missed these they could be left waiting for the next available slot – without any facilities.

The plan for a lorry park also ties in to the chamber's other main infrastructure project, the delivery of dual carriageway A1307, as this would also improve problems relating to heavy traffic.

The A1307 campaign group is also holding a meeting on October 7.

Do you think a lorry park is needed? Have your say at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

NEW HEAD: Ros Towns with pupils Ruby Loryman, 9, Jayden Perfect, 9, Mitch Smith, 10, and Maya Hattam, 10

New head's hopes for top primary

A NEW headteacher is hoping to maintain a primary school's "outstanding" status as it undergoes changes.

Ros Towns moved to Wickhambrook Primary Academy from Great Dunmow Primary School in Essex at the start of this school year.

The school, which has an "outstanding" Ofsted rating, joined the Samuel Ward Academy Trust in July, and is in the process of doing away with mixed year group classes

Miss Towns said: "Wickhambrook is growing in numbers – as it moves into single form entry classes – and we want to keep the 'outstanding' status, so there will be plenty of exciting challenges ahead."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Four councils set up shared legal service

ST Edmundsbury Borough Council is joining with three other councils to create a combined legal service based in Bury St Edmunds and Mildenhall.

Almost every council project has a legal aspect and use of in-house staff reduces the need to spend on external legal providers.

The other councils involved are Forest Heath, Babergh and Mid Suffolk District Councils.

MP welcomes latest employment figures

MP for West Suffolk Matthew Hancock has welcomed the region's latest unemployment figures. Just 633 people across West Suffolk are unemployed, representing 1.1 per cent of the economically active population. This is compared to a national average of 2.4 per cent unemployment.

New bistro on old hotel site to open next month

SNEAK PEEK: Daniel Pilley, James Pilley and Robin Pilley inside Nine Jars, which is set to open next month. Picture: Keith Jones

For the latest news from the area visit cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

A NEW bistro is set to open in less than a month on a site that's been derelict for three years.

Nine Jars will be a new modern bistro serving coffee and sandwiches in the day and wine, cocktails and dinner in the evening.

The restaurant is opening on the site of the former Bell Hotel in Haverhill High Street, which shut down in November, 2013.

A plan to convert the building into flats was floated the following year, but never went ahead, leaving the former hotel vacant.

But in April this year brothers Robin and Daniel Pilley, who have run local businesses since 1996, started renovation work on the site.

The first phase of renovations has resulted in Nine Jars bistro. Robin Pilley said the company hoped that within a month of opening the restaurant it would be providing around 12 new jobs in the town.

The opening date has been set for Saturday, October 15. The dining area is already fully booked for that evening, but they will be accepting walk-ins in the lounge area.

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

Food and drink menus have been released already.

Diners can expect meat dishes including pulled pork buns, chicken wings and burgers, as well as an extensive range of seafood and vegetarian dishes.

Beers on tap include Adnam's Ghost Ship ale and Jack Brand lager, as well as a Aspalls cider and a range of international beers.

During the day Nine Jars will be serving Illy coffee, with staff trained in the Centre of Excellence Barista Training.

The Pilley brothers are still working on further plans for the site, and hope to open a hotel in the upstairs area in 2017.

Daniel Pilley said: "We are extremely excited about all of the plans for the former Bell Hotel site. Nine Jars is the first phase of a huge redevelopment project. In its own right the bistro will be creating a lot of employment opportunities but the development as a whole is set to create plenty more."

Blois Meadow is the ideal nursery

"ONE of the best nurseries in the country, right here on your doorstep." That's what people are saying about Blois Meadow Day Nursery in Steeple Bumpstead.

Based in a peaceful countryside setting, but just five minutes from the centre of Haverhill, Blois Meadow is a family nursery with an atmosphere very different from that of the large, 'out of town shopping centre' kind of nursery.

Owned and managed by experienced local teacher Alison Midgley, Blois Meadow was judged 'outstanding' by Ofsted at its last inspection and, two years later, was one of just five finalists for the UK's 'Nursery of the Year' award.

"We work hard to make the nursery an extension of home, not just somewhere to drop off your children," says Alison Midgley. "We are large enough to be thoroughly professional, but small enough to get to know all our children and parents and really work together to provide quality care and early education linked to play."

The nursery is open from 7am till 7pm on weekdays throughout the year. It cares for children of all ages, from a few months old right up to school age, and offers free funded places for children of three and four, as well as many two year olds. Staff are highly qualified and the nursery also develops younger practitioners through its own City & Guilds apprenticeship scheme.

New parents registering before September 30 and quoting this offer will receive their first two weeks free. More information from bloismeadowdaynursery.com or call (01440) 730520.

'Have-a'go' ethos is triumphant

ASK any parent at Barnardiston what their overriding impression of the School is and it is likely that they will answer 'the amazing family atmosphere' and 'the buzz of the children'.

Pupils display reassuring old-fashioned values of good manners and politeness along with what is described by the children as the 'Barnardiston Oomph!' I can confirm that this is exactly what it is – a real energy and enthusiasm to have a go at anything new, to work hard and play hard and to get the most out of everything the School has to offer.

Class sizes average 12 and a strong extra-curricular programme gives everyone the chance to try new activities. From aged three, children enjoy Out and Abouts and giant sleepovers in their classrooms! They camp out, climb Ben Nevis and Snowdon, walk in the Derbyshire Dales and have day trips to Euro Disney and French markets. Flexi-boarding also gives working parents the opportunity for their child to stay overnight in the boarding house should they need additional childcare.

The full-size Astroturf provides an all-weather surface for children to play sport all-year round and, with 32 acres of grounds, there is plenty of space to play and explore. There is a strong fixture list and the School is also National Schools Orienteering Champions; it has also achieved both national and county honours in hockey and athletics.

There is a unique specialist learning centre – The Bridge – which provides both 1:1 and small group work. The School is registered by CReSTeD for the teaching of dyslexic pupils and an EFL Department.

All leavers go on to a variety of senior schools, both state and independent, with eight scholarships awarded last year, both academic and sporting. There are outstanding results for Reception-age children (4-5 years-old) – with 96% achieving or exceeding expected standards.

Fees at the Nursery and the School are highly competitive and, in October 2015, The Telegraph placed Barnardiston as third in the country of 'Best Value Boarding Prep Schools'.

For more information, or to book a no-obligation visit, please telephone the Registrar, Mrs Lesley Gundersen on (01440) 786316. You will be given a very warm welcome.

Ali Lusis has charmed the local food scene with her family-recipe piragi: Latvia's answer to the Cornish pasty, they're light-as-a-feather pillows of dough, plump with tasty fillings. Alice Ryan calls into her Offord Cluny kitchen for coffee. And piragi, of course.

From

EVERYONE who knows Ali Lusis is proud of her baking business. In less than two years, she's gone from scratch to constant sell-out; no mean achievement. But no one could be prouder than Arvids, her father-in-law.

A Latvian who came to the UK in the wake of the war – sent to a displaced persons camp in Scotland, to work as a farm labourer – it was Arvids that first made piragi, his homeland's signature bake, for Ali. He gave her the handwritten recipe. And thus he sowed the seed for Ali's Baltic Bakes, her now-booming piragi business.

"He's an amazing man; he's 92 now," says Ali. "And he really couldn't be more proud. Every time I speak to him – he still lives up in Scotland – he wants to know how it's going, about any new fillings. . . He's very touched that I'm making a Latvian speciality; a family speciality. And he's so excited that it's a success!"

From her first farmers' market – in St Ives, in the November of 2014 – Ali knew she was on to something: offering canapé-size piragi as tasters, her stall was soon mobbed. "I sold out. Completely. That made me think 'Hmm. This could really work'."

Little half-moons of yeasted dough, enriched with egg yolks, butter and whole milk, piragi are usually filled with a spicy smoked bacon, onion and black pepper mix. While Ali makes the classic recipe, she's developed a whole menu of her own fillings too. Including smoked salmon, cream cheese and dill; mushroom, sour cream and dill; sauerkraut, smoked bacon and caraway; goat's cheese and caramelised onion; apricot, almond and brandy; raspberry and apple; rhubarb and orange, a thread of Baltic flavours runs through them all.

"I can still remember the first time I ate piragi: I just thought they were the tastiest thing," remembers Ali. "Valdis, my husband, and I were at his parents' house and they'd made piragi as part of a tea, which is traditional. They were unlike anything I'd had before: the dough is so light, not at all greasy, and the filling was so full of flavour. That was 20 years ago, and I made my first batch not long after."

Growing up in London, Ali was, she confesses, something of a slow starter in the kitchen. "My mum was a wonderful cake baker: our house was just round the corner from school, so all my friends used to stop off for a slice of coffee and walnut on their way home. But the only cooking my sister and I did was on a Friday night. Mum was a hairdresser and worked late on a Friday, so we'd reconstitute a packet curry – not great."

It was on leaving home that Ali discovered a love of – and flair for – cooking. Armed with an M&S recipe book, which she owns and uses to this day, she hosted endless dinner parties in her first flat. "Chicken Kiev was often on the menu. That dates me, doesn't it?"

Ali's background is in the corporate, rather than food and drink, world; the bulk of her working life has been spent as a PA and event organiser – the latter for massive motoring brands, such as Jaguar and Land Rover. Meeting Valdis at a conference at Gleneagles, Ali took a career break on having their son,

Latvia with love . . .

Julius, now 15.

Cooking remained a hobby until two years ago when – having lost her parents in quick succession: their funerals were held within a month – the idea for Ali's Baltic Bakes came knocking.

"It was time to do something for myself. I wanted to go back to work, but I didn't want to go back into an office. Because I love cooking, a food business seemed a natural choice. But I knew I had to do something different, something other people weren't doing.

"Piragi aren't very well known in this country," Ali continues. "I love it when new customers walk up to the stall mouthing the signs to themselves, clearly thinking 'Whatever's this?'. Some people will say 'Oh, it's just a pasty' – which it's not: it's a bread, not a pastry, for a start. But others will be intrigued. And once they've tried the piragi – well, I've never known anyone not to enjoy them.

"That's the loveliest thing of all: when customers come back time and again. I had a woman buy 36 the other day. I asked her if she was planning a party, but she said

LITTLE MIX: Alison Lusi is the brains behind Ali's Baltic Bakes – these piragi have been taking the Cambridge foodie scene by storm

"No, we just love them' . . ."

As well as ticking the 'different' and 'delicious' boxes, piragi are, explains Ali, ideal for eating on the go.

"They're neat and clean to hold, the filling doesn't all fall out when you bite into them – that's why the little ones are perfect as party canapés."

Selling at St Ives Farmers' Market, festivals and food fairs, Ali is also part of Cambridge's two 'shop local' ordering services: both allow customers to order from a host of on-the-doorstep, small-scale suppliers, then collect their whole shop at a designated and convenient time and place.

Cambridge Food Assembly's collection point is in the centre of the city, at The Tram Depot, the pub on Dover Street, while the newly-launched Cambridge Food Collective has a hub on Clifton Road.

Keeping up with demand can be a challenge. One unforgettable weekend saw Ali bake for both BuckFest, the Buckden music festival, and a wedding, which required 400 canapés: "I didn't sleep. At all. But I love what I'm doing, which helps."

Piragi aren't speedy to make. Each batch of dough has, explains Ali, to be "nurtured": this is the epitome of food made with love. After an initial proving, the dough is knocked back, kneaded gently and then split into small balls, which are each rolled out, loaded with filling and then folded in half. "That's where the wine glass comes in: I use it to seal and cut the edges, creating that nice smooth curve," adds Ali. "It's all very hi-tech."

After a second proving, then baking for a precise 17 minutes, the piragi are good to go: incredibly easy-going, they can be eaten hot or cold and are happy to be frozen. Ali makes all the fillings from scratch, even curing her own salmon, and buys her ingredients as locally as possible: her flour comes from Stotfold Mill, just over the border in Bedfordshire; her goat's cheese comes from Hitchin's Wobbly Bottom Farm; her smoked bacon comes from Days of Buckden.

With Valdis and her yoga classmates as (very willing) guinea pigs, Ali's always working on new variations: Christmas will bring a stollen-themed piragi, filled with marzipan and rum-soaked fruit.

"When I started this, I knew I'd enjoy it – but I had no idea how much," says Ali. "I'm a city girl really, but I love getting to spend so much time outdoors: when you're doing a market, you're out of the house at 6am. I don't even mind when it's dark or cold, I just put my ear-muffs on!

"I love meeting all the people, too. And, of course, I love making the piragi – they're such great little things."

Ali will be selling her Baltic Bakes at Milton Country Park's much-loved Autumn Festival on Sunday, September 25, 10.30am-5pm. Promising fun for all the family, the event includes everything from live music and craft stalls to hovercraft rides on the lake – see miltoncountrypark/autumnfestival for full details.

Getting a head on the flat

LIFE-SIZE painted horses will be joining the real deal at Newmarket Racecourses today, tomorrow and Saturday for the Cambridgeshire meeting.

The Rowley Mile will be hosting three days of racing alongside a beer festival at the annual September meeting.

While horses race to the finish line on the course, the Boulevard Marquee will be home to the off-track action.

Live music and the best of brews from both the local area and further afield will be taking centre stage in the marquee for all three days.

The life-size painted horses were provided by Shadwell stud and have been decorated by local Newmarket schools to celebrate the town's 350th anniversary.

Saturday is the most popular day of the festival, with free family entertainment also being provided in the form of a bouncy castle, fairground slide and facepainting.

The racing starts at 2pm today and Saturday and 1.55pm tomorrow.

Tickets start at £10 on Saturday for the family enclosure, and £14.40 for the grandstand and paddock enclosure or £22.50 for the premier enclosure on each of the days.

See newmarket.thejockeyclub.co.uk/events-tickets/the-cambridgeshire-meeting for details.

■ Friday, September 23 – Friday, September 30

■ Stand-up Shappi Khorsandi (+ support) comes to the arts centre tomorrow with her show Oh My Country!, which is a love letter to her adopted land and covers everything from Morris dancing to Morrissey. Her reputation for whip-crack jokes and a razor sharp wit have stood her in good stead in Haverhill as tickets have all but sold out. The arts centre may be able to release extra seats this week so enquire at the box office.

■ There's a table top sale on Saturday morning. Get there at 10am to snap up a bargain

■ There's a musical tribute to the music of Neil Sedaka and Howie Greenfield on Saturday, September 24, with Oh! Carol. From their humble beginnings in Brooklyn to the dizzying heights of their success in the 50s & 60s, the songwriting genius of Sedaka and Greenfield can be described as one of the most successful partnerships of all time. Together they were responsible for such hits as Calendar Girl, Happy Birthday Sweet Sixteen, Breaking Up Is Hard To Do, Amarillo, Stupid Cupid, Laughter in the Rain and Oh! Carol – all of which you can hear on the night.

■ The Royal Shakespeare Company will broadcast live one of Shakespeare's lesser performed romances, Cymbeline, on Wednesday, September 28, at 7pm. Gillian Bevan takes the eponymous role as an ineffectual Queen ruling over a divided Britain. Consumed with grief at the death of two of her children, Cymbeline's judgement is clouded and when Innogen, the only living heir, marries her sweetheart Posthumus in secret, an enraged Cymbeline banishes him.

■ The Forbidden Nights boys return on Friday, September 30. Tickets sold out some time ago and judging from the full house, and the response of the audience last time they were at the arts centre, it isn't going to be a sedate night out.

■ Jennifer Saunders and Joanna Lumley aka Patsy and Eds hit the screen with the bolli bottle firmly in their grasp with Absolutely Fabulous: The Movie (15) on Monday, September 26. After an attempt to schmooze

MUSICAL TRIBUTE: Oh Carol is being performed at the Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday

Kate Moss goes spectacularly awry Eds and Pats beat a retreat to the French Riviera. There they have a fun-in-the-sun caper with lots of star cameos and Botox aplenty. There's a slight change of tone with Julieta (15) on Tuesday, September 27. This latest film from director Pedro Almodovar deals with the complex emotions between a mother and her estranged daughter and is based on one of Noble Prize winning Alice Munro's short stories. It is in Spanish with English subtitles. There's another shift in tone, and a slight vowel shift in a key character's name, with the adaptation of Arthur Ransome's Swallows and Amazons (PG). The classic story of the Walker children and the Blackett girls and their Lake District adventures screens on Thursday, September 29, at 7.30pm.

■ Coming up the arts centre has We're Going on a Bear Hunt (Wednesday and Thursday, October 5 & 6) a charming adaptation of the Michael Rosen poem by Little Angel Theatre which is perfect for preschoolers. The Lisa Mason School of Dance perform Let's Dance on Saturday and Sunday, October 8 & 9, and The Royal Shakespeare Company screen a live broadcast of King Lear on Wednesday, 12 October 12.

STYLISH: The Swift Bolus

Skoda Octavia is 20 years old

TWO decades ago Skoda was the butt of many jokes but now it is regarded as one of the top marques in VW's range and its products regularly scoop top awards.

And one of its biggest successes has been the Octavia.

In September, 1996, former Czech President Vaclav Havel gave the starting signal for the production of the Octavia at a newly-opened part of the plant at the company's headquarters in Mlada Boleslav close to Prague.

Since then more than five million Skoda Octavias have left the production halls.

In addition to the main plant in the Czech Republic the compact motor is now manufactured at the Skoda plants in China, India, Russia and Kazakhstan.

The development of the completely new Octavia model series began in 1992, approximately one year after the traditional Czech brand joined the Volkswagen Group and was based on a group platform which was completely new at the time.

EVOLVED: The Octavia has moved on over the last 20 years

In 1996 – the first sales year – customers could choose from two four-cylinder petrol engines or a turbodiesel drivetrain, but in 1998 the Octavia Combi extended the model range and from 1999 the estate version was also available with all-wheel drive.

The second-generation Octavia continued the success story of its predecessor and between 2004 and 2013 1.6 million customers opted for the saloon, 900,000 buyers chose the estate version.

Third generation of the Octavia has been in production since November 2012.

Testing times for the Land Rover Discovery

MORE images of the new Land Rover Discovery undergoing testing have been released prior to the world premiere of the fifth generation SUV at the Paris Motor Show, which runs from October 1-16.

The vehicle has undergone some 28 months of trials in 20 countries across the globe, including endurance tests across the deserts of Dubai in temperatures of plus 40 degrees Celsius and in sub-zero conditions in the north of Sweden.

It has also been put through its paces at altitude in the Colorado mountains.

Land Rover says it has built 294 development vehicles to prove the new Discovery and carried out more than 35,000 individual component tests.

The new model is the first Land Rover to undergo a full programme of virtual testing prior to the physical testing process, delivering robust quality and durability before any prototypes are built.

Exact details of the latest Discovery are still being kept under wraps although Land Rover is already describing it as the "ultimate family SUV".

During the development of the new seven-seat Disco the company's engineers were tasked with involving their children in the design process and take on board their demands.

The youngsters also came up with the final camouflage design to keep the model's final design a secret.

Alex Heslop, Land Rover's chief engineer for the new Discovery, said: "Being able to get the children involved in our final camouflage design brought a smile to all our faces. They don't always realise it, but these kids have played a major role in developing the New Discovery."

"There is no better insight into the needs of the modern family than the first-hand experience we glean at home. That's why we have up to nine USB ports to charge everyone's devices, why we've got space to hide four iPads away securely and why every seat has been designed to be the best seat in the house."

The new model, which will be revealed at the Paris show on September 29, also features a system that allows owners to configure their vehicle seating through the InControl Remote app on their smartphone from anywhere.

Land Rover is claiming the so-called Intelligent Seat Fold Technology as a world-first and it enables the two rear rows of seats to be fully reconfigured in as little as 14 seconds via the app downloaded on any iOS or Android operating system.

Tickets for the show are available at mondial-automobile.com/en/

ICONIC: The Bullitt star

Mustang tops film charts for Ford fans

THE Mustang GT 390 from the movie Bullitt has been named the all-time star Ford of the silver screen.

Organisers of FordFest, at Santa Pod in Bedfordshire this weekend, ran a public survey to find out which of the famous Fords of film and TV resonates most with the British public.

And star of the show will be a replica of the iconic Bullitt Mustang itself, alongside its Dodge Charger nemesis.

Hot on its heels were detectives Regan and Carter in the Consul 3000 GT made famous by 70s cop drama The Sweeney while fellow 1970s law enforcers Bodie and Doyle, The Professionals, were in hot pursuit in the series' silver Capri 3.0S.

Police officers from both sides of the Atlantic completed the top five, with DI Gene Hunt's Mk 3 Cortina from Life on Mars in fourth spot and US crime enforcement duo Starsky and Hutch in their red and white Gran Torino filling the next two positions.

LIGHT: In weight rather than pocket

Audi TT RS is ready to roll for a cool £51k

THE new 400PS Audi TT RS will cost from £51,800 when the order book opens later this month.

Available as before in Coupé and Roadster form, it is the most powerful series production TT to date and brings the option of new Audi Matrix OLED lighting technology on stream for the first time.

Lighter than its predecessor by 26kg, thanks in part to an aluminium crankcase, the newly developed five-cylinder, 2.5-litre TFSI engine with dual injection and Audi Valvelift technology brings a 17 per cent increase in performance in the latest model.

Headline figures are 0-62mph in just 3.7 seconds (Roadster 3.9 seconds) on the way to a governed top speed of 155mph.

But that maximum can be raised to 174mph if the optional Dynamic Package Plus, which also includes a sports exhaust system, is specified

ACTION STATIONS:
The Discovery is more than capable of coping with a huge variety of conditions, not least caring for your family

WIN tickets to Cambridge Art Fair

Cambridge Art Fair is back for a fourth year and it's even better than ever! Running from September 30 to October 2 at the city's Guildhall, this year's fair will showcase a vast range of artwork, spanning paintings, original prints and sculptures, dating from the 20th century to the present day. More than 30 dealers and galleries from across the UK and wider world are taking a stand at the show, which means visitors will be able to see – and buy – in the region of 1,000 individual works. Alongside the modern masters, you'll find little known names from overseas and famous contemporary faces (Fred Ingrams, Sir Peter Blake, Maggi Hambling).

To celebrate the event's return Cambridge News has teamed up with the fair's organisers to give away 100 pairs of tickets, each pair worth £10. So whether you're a seasoned collector or thinking about investing in your first original piece – or you just want to see the once-in-a-lifetime show for yourself – email your name, address and contact number to editorial@cambridge-magazines.co.uk, typing "Art Fair tickets" in the subject box. Entries should arrive no later than September 25 and the usual terms and conditions apply; if you don't want your details used by Cambridge Newspapers, add "NO CONTACT".

Lacklustre Borough defeated at Holland

Football

HAVERHILL Borough put in a lacklustre performance as they suffered a 3-0 defeat at Holland in the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division.

Holland took the lead after just 15 minutes when Borough defender Bart Pater was caught in possession, allowing Steven Eaton to race through on goal and score.

Borough's best chance came in the 28th minute when Harry O'Connor was fouled on the edge of the penalty area, and from Rory Bone's free kick, Ryan Phillips' stooping header was deflected wide.

Eaton forced Borough keeper Tom Coombe into another fine save as the half drew to a close, and moments later Bone had to clear a goal-bound header off the line following a corner.

Holland continued to pile on the pressure in the second half and they continued to create some good chances.

Terry Rymer's shot from the edge of the penalty area crashed against the Borough crossbar after 51 minutes, as the score remained 1-0.

But just 10 minutes later the home side doubled their advantage.

Joe Martin netted the second goal with a header from a corner, and as the game entered stoppage time, Holland scored a third goal.

Eaton beat the offside trap and then raced through before calmly slotting the ball home past the stranded Coombe.

Lee Brown ran the remaining 11 miles to cross the line first for Haverhill.

New club's under-15s team begin with a win

HAVERHILL Town under-15s began their season in the Premier Sock Tape Cambridgeshire & District Colts League, Villa Division with a 3-1 away win against Dynamo.

Competing in their first ever competitive fixture since forming during the summer, Town took control from the first whistle and never looked troubled throughout the 90 minutes.

Town opened the scoring after just four minutes when a cross from Riley Brown was controlled by Jack Lisher who scored with a half-volley.

This set the team up nicely for an assured first half where Town should have increased their lead.

The Town defence, expertly marshalled by captain Ben Rogers, dealt with every aerial attack thrown at them.

Town doubled the lead in the second half when Cameron Reid played an inch-perfect pass to set away Tyler Griffin and he lashed the ball into the bottom corner.

Lisher then set up Brown to score the third goal.

Foxton rallied and pulled a goal back 15 minutes from the end. But Town held to claim the victory.
